Notes

- 2011 The race was held in the Backyard - all on trail. Darkness on the trail ended many runners' races.
- 2012 A night-time road loop was added for hours 13-24, and the 24 hour mark was surpassed by three runners.
- 2013 Tim Englund claimed his second title.
- 2014 The race ended at 49 hours as the runners failed to start the 50th hour. Johan Steene had to catch a flight and Jeremy Ebel refused to continue - the ultimate act of sportsmanship.
- 2015 The race was not held due to storm damage on the trail.
- 2016 Start time was moved to 6:45 to give more daylight on the last trail loop of the day.
- 2017 The trail was in pristine shape and 14 runners surpassed 24 hours and two surpassed 48 hours in the longest race to date (59 hours).
- 2018 Three runners exceeded last year's record, with Johan Steene outlasting Courtney Dauwalter setting a new high-water mark of 68 hours.
- 2019 The Backyard format went worldwide, and Big's Backyard Ultra became the Backyard (Last Man Standing) World Championship, with 10 Golden Ticket winners competing. Maggie Guterl was the first woman to win the event.
